Hi, Lance. Thanks, but we're looking for the total number of mobile ALPR units, functional or not, as we want to argue that we need FY15 UASI funding to sustain our current ALPR capacity – which we hope means replacing even the non-operable units.

Hello Arba,

Here is some of the information you were looking for. Right now we have 25 operational ALPRs with three to four vehicles to be junked shortly. They may or may not identify vehicles for the older systems to be placed into.

The last four that were purchased was by fleet and they were approximately $18,000.00 each with us to install. If we wanted to purchase upfitting with systems I was told it was approximately $22,000.00

Ken,

Cmdr Caluris and his group don't want to pursue Verint at this time. That leaves just you if you're interested. OCD would have to fund it from 1505 or somewhere. The cost would be in the $1 million range. Personally I think with Pathar, Geofeedia, and our planned procurement of Palantir (which you may not have seen yet), we have this space pretty well covered. Let me know.

Jonathan/ Marty,

First let me thank you for loaning us the STICs radios this past week, we would basically be completely dead in the water if not for them.. In short with the Sprint/Nextel PTT system going down we have been forced to try Sprints new PTT system and the new Torque smart phone device – this has been an utter failure as not only are there the anticipated coverage issues the torque phones hardware and programs are failing on multiple levels.. Its disappointing that they would even advertize and put this product on the market with the numerous, and seeming unfixable issues that are arising.

Please reach out to any contacts you may have or through OEMC and see if anyone has a suggestion for a possible solution. We would need radios or devices capable of encryption, range to cover at a minimum the City ( or be capable to go into an RF mode for 2-3 mile range if out of the City), and devices that we can program to a minimum of 50 individual channels ( separate channel for each team) .. Basically like the STICs system or old Nextel PTT system..

If you have any luck let me know so I can set up a meeting asap to look into any possible option.. Thanks, NR
